Features and Benefits

Insights direct from Mandiant Threat Intelligence

Hear about what our analysts and experts are tracking, and what they think you should know about the threats you face. We draw directly from our industry-leading intelligence organization to build a dynamic threat briefing that's relevant and actionable.

Tailored to executives

Instead of getting into the details, leaders and other stakeholders have very specific needs for big-picture views. Our briefings include topics and levels of information specifically curated for executive-level interest, understanding and immediate application.

Regular, timely and lasting information on threats and risks

The value of intelligence is multiplied by regular, reliable delivery. Our weekly briefings ensure that you can keep pace with rapid developments in areas such as espionage, cyber crime, vulnerabilities and others.

Interactive live briefings and curated archives

Executive Intelligence Briefings are delivered in an invite-only live online presentation format each week. They provide ample opportunity for feedback and questions during and after each session. Recordings of each briefing are made available to all subscribers for more flexibility and convenience.

Stay up to date on a variety of security topics

Learn more about a wide range of intelligence topics, including strategic insights and tactical details, including,

- Updates on likely malicious tactics and activities
- Evaluation of the latest threat trends affecting multiple industries and regions
- Analysis of threat mitigation strategies
- FireEye perspective on the latest cyber news
- Forecasts of increased cyber activity by sectors or countries
- Previews of new APT groups before public release
